THE SINGL-BREASTED SACK SUIT

The most important suit is the suit most worn. The well-dressed man is not the man who looks well upon occasions—but, all the time. The sack is the great test of his taste and discrimination in dress, and "THE HUB" Single-Breasted Sack is the highest mark of excellence.

Our illustration here is of the new length, easy and graceful in fit, with broad full athletic shoulders, giving that effect of breadth and strength so much admired in man, and with full straight hanging back made with long vent in middle seam. Attention is called particularly to the close-setting collar (sagging, ill-fitting collars are impossible on these hand-tailored coats), the perfect proportioned lapels, the graceful side lines and the fashionable almost straight cut of the front.

The fabrics of these suits are black, blue and Oxford undressed worsteds, thibets, serges, mixed tweeds, fancy plaid and striped cassimeres and worsteds and Scotch chevots in new and exclusive patterns.

THE DOUBLE-BREASTED SACK SUIT

"THE HUB" Double - Breasted Sacks are absolutely correct in every detail of fashion cut, workmanship and material. The designers, cutters and needlemen are the best obtainable, and have given the most careful supervision to every garment.

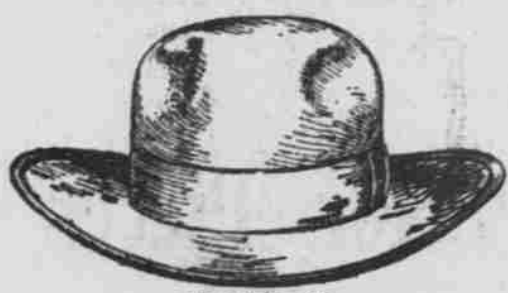

The suit shown here illustrates the smart style for this season—a style evolved not from fashion plates, but based upon a knowledge of what is actually in vogue among men of refinement and position in society.

Note the close-fitting, low-notched collar, the long, straight lapels, the broad shoulders and chest—in short, the "air" and distinction of the coat. Note the graceful, easy hang of the trousers.

Of black, blue, Oxford and mixed worsteds, serges, thibets, fancy plaid and striped cassimeres, Scotch chevots, etc. All of best quality according to price.
